MilitaryKidsConnect.org invites all military parents to spend quality time with their children this month at MilitaryKidsConnect.org, the only Department of Defense web site dedicated to the psychological health of military kids.

All military families face unique stresses that can make the difficult job of parenting even harder:
- The military parent must deal with the stresses associated with military duty or reentering civilian life.
- Children must adjust to new and increased responsibilities while a military parent is away from the family (and, in some cases, in harm’s way).
- Many military children also deal with frequent moves, changing schools, leaving friends behind, and possibly new caretakers.

The 39th Medical Group’s Family Advocacy Program is dedicated to the prevention, education, prompt reporting, investigation, intervention and treatment of spouse and child abuse. The program provides a variety of services to Airmen and families to enhance their relationship skills and improve their quality of life. This mission is accomplished through a variety of groups, seminars, counseling and intervention services. Please call Family Advocacy at 676-6452 to help build a stronger family.
